Supported by: WELLS FARGO
STARBABIES (Recommended Ages: 6 months to 2 years)

The purpose of this course is to develop a high comfort level in the water, while training parents in water safety and drowning prevention. This course does not teach children to become accomplished swimmers or to survive in the water; it does provide a confidence-building, fun and loving experience. One parent or caregiver must be in the water with each child. Swim diapers are required.

WHITE STAR (Recommended Ages: 3 years to 5 years)

If your child is afraid of the water, cannot swim at all, and does not like to get their face wet; then this is the class for them! This course will develop a high comfort level in the water and a readiness to swim. Instructors will emphasize the development of jumping in, kicking to the surface of the water, getting air and returning to the wall. Safety skills, entries and exits will also be highlighted in this course. This class approaches teaching swimming through creative and fun activities in the water. Children must be able to support themselves by holding onto the side of the pool, and be able to participate without parental presence, in order to enroll in this class.

RED STAR

This course is designed for children who are NOT afraid of the water, can float on their front and their back and who can jump in and return to the surface of the water without help. This course will develop correct body rotation and forward movement in the water. Instructors will emphasize independent floating, gliding, and arm strokes combined with kicking. Recognizing distressed swimmers, getting help, and entries/exits from deep water will also be taught in this course. Completion of Stage White prior to this class is not necessary as long as children exhibit complete comfort in the water.

YELLOW STAR

This course is recommended for children who can tread water, swim basic freestyle and can swim in deep water. The development of breath control, side breathing, and independent gliding will be emphasized. Safety skills including treading water and putting on a lifejacket while in the water will also be taught. Children should be able to perform all the skills from Stage Red prior to enrolling in this course.

Air Quality in Phoenix and Central City South
Part Two: Reporting Air Quality Complaints

By Katelyn Parady
katelyn.parady@asu.edu

Issues with the air affect everybody in Phoenix, but the residents of Central City South especially have to deal with pollution, dust, and other emissions from freeways, vacant lots, and industrial and commercial activities. Because of this, the Central City South newsletter is publishing a series of articles about how to protect your family and community from air pollution. This month, we’re sharing information about reporting air quality complaints.

Have you ever seen dust blowing off of a vacant lot or worried that a business near your home might be breaking air pollution rules? The Maricopa County Air Quality Department can’t have inspectors in every part of the city at all times. For that reason, the department counts on you and your neighbors to report potential air quality violations related to dust, emissions, smoking vehicles, burn activities, and more.

You can reach the department’s complaint line at 602-372-2703, where both English and Spanish speakers will be waiting to help you. Have as much information as you can about the air quality issue you’d like to report. For example, it’s helpful if you can describe the problem you’re reporting and give an address or directions to the location where you think someone needs to do an inspection.

You do not have to give out any personal details about who you are or where you live to report a concern. If you’d like the inspector to call you back and tell you what they did in response to your complaint, you can leave your phone number. But that’s up to you.

If you would rather report a problem online, just go to http://maricopa.gov/ag/contact_us/ReportViolation.aspx. Click on the link to “air quality violation”, “dust control violation” or “smoking vehicle” and a form will appear for you to fill out. When you make a complaint online, you do have to give your name and address, so if you want to be anonymous, call the hotline instead!

The City of Phoenix Water Services Department is in the process of rehabilitating small diameter sewers throughout the city. We will be installing structural liners in the sanitary sewer lines in the areas highlighted on the map to the right.

What should I expect to see and hear?

- You will see the trucks, equipment and personnel of SAK and Pro-Pipe, contractors to the City, in the street and/or alleys intermittently throughout the construction period cleaning lines (several weeks in advance), installing structural liners, and reinstating service connections as part of the sewer rehabilitation work effort.

- You will be notified 72 hours, and then again 24 hours in advance, if the sewer service connection to your home or business will be temporarily restricted on a specific date and time. Restrictions include limiting: flushing toilets, running water in sinks, showers, baths, washing machines and dishwashers.

- The duration of sewer service restrictions is typically less than eight hours.

- You will be notified if the contractor needs access to a manhole or clean-out on your property in order to maintain proper operation of the City’s sanitary sewer system.

- Access to residences will be maintained at all times. Only intermittent interruptions may occur.

- You may hear noise from trucks, pumps and other equipment during the hours of operation. We will do our best to minimize disruptions.

Staying Healthy in Arizona’s Deadly Summer Heat

Arizona’s heat is not just uncomfortable, it is dangerous and deadly! On a hot day, a person can produce as much as 2 to 3 gallons of sweat. Because so many heat illnesses involve excessive dehydration of the body, it is essential that water intake during the day be about equal to the amount of sweat produced. People who work or live outdoors, young children, and the elderly are at greater risk to suffer from heat-related illness. This is an important time to check on your neighbors, especially if they are elderly or living alone.

Heat-related illness falls into three major categories:

Heat cramps are muscular pains and spasms that occur when the body loses electrolytes during profuse sweating or when inadequate electrolytes are taken into the body. They usually begin in the arms, legs or abdomen, and often precede heat exhaustion. Treatment for heat cramps is to rest in shade, get near a fan, spray the person with water and massage the cramp.

Heat exhaustion is a medical emergency. When a person is suffering from heat exhaustion, they will perspire profusely and most likely will be pale. Heat exhaustion is best treated by taking the person to a cool place, applying cool compresses, elevating feet and giving fluids.

Heat stroke is the worst heat-related injury. The brain has lost its ability to regulate body temperature. The person will be hot, redsh and warm to the touch. Their temperature will be markedly high and there will be no perspiration. This is a medical emergency: call 9-1-1. The emergency care of heatstroke is to cool the body as quickly as possible. One of the best methods for cooling the body during a heat emergency is to wrap the patient in cool, wet sheets.

Other tips to avoid heat-related illness:
- Never leave infants, children or pets inside a parked vehicle.
- Increase fluid intake, regardless of activity level. Don’t wait until thirsty to drink fluids; drink more liquid than one’s thirst indicates.
- There is no optimum temperature of drinking water, but most people tend not to drink warm or very cold fluids as readily as they will cool ones.
- Avoid "heat hangover." Continue to drink fluids even after strenuous activity. This will enable the body to maintain optimum hydration, and help prevent the after effects of heat exposure such as headaches and fatigue.
- Avoid beverages containing alcohol, caffeine or large amounts of sugar as they dehydrate the body.
- Avoid very cold beverages as they cause stomach cramps.
- Never depend on thirst to signal when and how much to drink. Instead, drink 5 to 7 ounces of fluids every 15 to 20 minutes to replenish the necessary fluids in the body.
- Limit exercise or outdoor activity between the hours of 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., when the sun is at its peak intensity. If active during this time frame, drink a minimum of 16 to 32 ounces of water each hour.
- Wear a sunscreen with a minimum SPF 15, and apply at least 30 minutes before going outdoors.
- When outdoors, rest frequently in shady areas so that your body can recover.
- Take special precaution with infants and young children by dressing them in loose, cool clothing and shading their heads and faces with hats or an umbrella. Protect their feet with shoes.
- Carry bottled water with you in the car for yourself, your passengers, and for anyone you see who might be suffering from the heat. If you see someone you believe is in heat distress, call 911 for assistance.......................You could save a life!

Councilman Valenzuela

"Recently, the City Council took an important step in what has been a challenging budget process. During the past few months, we have heard from residents, business and community leaders, and city employees about the city’s 2014/2015 budget. When we started this process, we were facing a $37.7 million shortfall. The budget that was passed balances revenue and expenses, without impacting city programs and services, preserves jobs, and accelerates the hiring of police officers and firefighters. I would like to thank all of those who were involved and engaged in this important process.

During these tough economic times, our city employees are taking a reduction in compensation while continuing to deliver quality programs and services to our residents. I volunteered to stand with our great employees and take a voluntary reduction in my compensation. We are all in this together and it will take shared sacrifices to ensure we continue moving our city in a positive direction - ensuring safe neighborhoods and quality of life for our employees and residents. Finally, I will continue to work on your behalf to make public safety the top priority of the city. With this vote, we are a step closer to being able to hire police officers in the first quarter of 2015. Together, we must continue to keep our families safe, strengthen our neighborhoods and build our economy."

HISPANIC TOWN HALL MEETING
American Legion Post 41
Tuesday, June 24 at 7:30 p.m.

The station you count on tell it like it is, wants you to tell us like it is.

CBS 5 is hosting a town hall meeting, Tuesday, June 24 at 7:30 pm, at the American Legion Post 41 located at 715 South 2nd Avenue in Phoenix.

We want to hear from you. What are your thoughts about news coverage?
How can we better serve you and your community?
What are the stories you think that are NOT being told?

CBS 5 managers and news anchors will be there to listen to you and answer your questions. We invite you to join us and tell us like it is, at the CBS 5 Hispanic Town Hall meeting.

We’ll also raffle away prizes to those in attendance, including a big screen TV.
